to reflect the past, present, future. . .

Since 1941, York Junior College has functioned as the focal point of culture and learning for York, Pennsylvania. During these twenty-five years the college has grown from a one building operation to a beautiful modern campus. In this 1967 Horizon, the staff would like to honor this heritage by examining York Junior College today.

Horizon '67

Twenty-five years ago, March 24, 1941, YCI Headmaster, Lester F. Johnson, suggested the establishment of York Junior College.

The first problems were: How to obtain students? How to raise funds? To secure students, the faculty interviewed high school graduates and were paid two dollars for each one they induced to attend. To raise money, the first campaign goal was $15,000.

On September 25, 1941, just two months after Pearl

Harbor, classes met in the Duke Street building with 42 students and 15 faculty.

What of the present? Yes, it is the fringe of yesterday in a contemporary setting. The curriculum is fully accredited. The students now come from 21 states and 8 foreign countries. The recent Million Dollar Development Fund succeeded.

From 1941 to 1966—a quarter of a century of sure progress.

library: center of intellectual life

The Library is growing continually. The east wing is almost filled with books, representing a growth of over 15,000 volumes in three years. The Audio-Visual and Microfilm Division is expanding to serve students and faculty, and remote control equipment has been installed for more efficient use of the listening rooms. Extended hours, an increased staff, and a generous budget have combined to make the YJC Library the center of intellectual life on the campus.

Librarians: Mrs. Dressel, Mrs. Klinedinst, Mrs. Lagunowich, Fred Mooseberger, Mrs. Hollingshead, Mrs. Pickell, Mrs. Atwood

Men's Dorm: Center for floor meetings, record reviews, and water battles

Student Union: Center for snacks, coffee breaks, and college formals

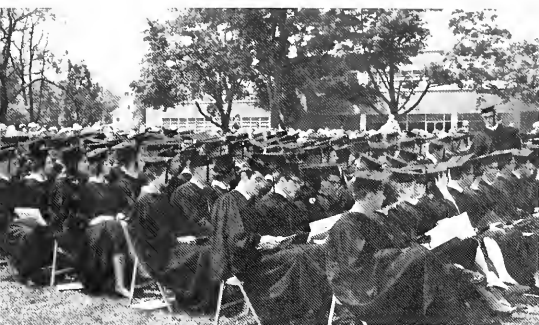

Gymnasium: Center for YJC sports' world

During its twenty-five years of history, the College has had four presidents. In 1959, under the leadership of Dr. Ray A. Miller, the middle Atlantic States Association accredited this institution. From that time on, the Administration and Faculty organization developed according to curriculum needs, to the present sixty-five members, headed by Deans and departmental chairmen.

Working on various committees, the Faculty have suggested curriculum improvements and at present are developing long range plans for the four-year program.

Art Instructor: David Alexick

The Liberal Arts department offers opportunities for its students to study art, languages, literature, social and physical sciences, philosophy, and music. The department provides training in the basic skills. It enables its students to master the fundamentals of writing and speaking, to gain an appreciation of their heritage, to obtain a sense of the continuity of Western Civilization, and to gain an understanding of self and society. Students may acquire the pre-requisites for transfer purposes, as well as a two-year cultural background.

Mr. King gives explicit directions in Biology lab.

The Mathematics and Science Department has been reorganized into the Engineering and Science Division by Dr. Carl L. Scheirer, Jr., a newcomer to YJC this year. This Division includes engineering, mathematics, physics, chemistry, and biology.

A modest research program has also been started. An X-Ray diffraction unit has been installed in the Physics Laboratory, and Dr. Khanna has started a study of the surface charges of solids. Dr. Scheirer is working on the separation of some naturally occurring organic compounds found in wood.

Faculty: Albert W. King, Charles J. Vergin, Patricia Moore, Dominic Macchia, Barry R. Morton, Carl L. Scheirer. Standing: Warren Wetzler, Leon E. Arnold, Sardari Khanna, Philip L. Garrett.

Roger W. Ellis solves his problems by Calculator

Sparked by a complete revision, the Business Administration department took on a new collegiate approach.

A departmental orientation for all business administration students initiated the college year; and later, the students took the Orientation Test of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

In co-operation with the National Secretaries Association, the secretarial department organized a local chapter of the Future Secretaries Association—the NSA's York White Rose Junior Chapter.

Up-to-date calculating, adding, duplicating equipment was made available for educational training purposes.

Faculty: Russell E. Yoas, Boyd E. Arnold, Charles S. Seligman, Noel P. Laird, Roger W. Ellis, Andrew Jackson.

Keith Leidich, Ginny Weimer, Ronald Dixon, Linda Myers, Mrs. Jo-An Cummings.

Are you too tired to go to the library to start that term paper? If so, get on old Bermudas and head for the gym on Tuesday or Thursday evenings. Under the direction of a Physical Education director, recreation is provided. A student can shoot "at" the basket, or he can bounce on the trampoline, or limber up tired muscles on the bars. This informal activity is extracurricular to the complete Physical Education program of varsity and intramural sports.

25

At the Development Fund dinner, the photographer focused on the Faculty area.

Dr. Miller delivered a convincing, memorable address.

In honor of YJC's twenty-fifth anniversary, a dinner was given early in the fall for York County citizens to "kick-off" the million dollar drive for campus development.

The members of the Board of Trustees presented the facts related to the past heritage of the college, to the present growth of campus buildings, the Faculty needs, and library facilities. They indicated their deep interest in the "Commitment to the Future."

Three months later, the goal of the Fund was more than achieved. By careful planning and sheer hard work, the facts became reality.

FIRST PARENTS' DAY WEEKEND . . .

An overflow of parking facilities indicated the success of Parents' Day Weekend.

Professor DeVanguardia discussed language problems with a student and parent during the reception for parents and Faculty.

Never has the campus been more beautiful and sparkling than it was for the weekend of October 8 and 9, when hundreds of parents and friends converged on York.

Saturday morning, Dr. Miller welcomed our guests in the college gymnasium. The parents had the opportunity to become oriented to the YJC academic program by means of Faculty panel discussions led by Charles S. Seligman of Business Administration, Dr. Carl L. Scheirer of Engineering and Science, and Dr. Everett G. Beckman of Liberal Arts.

Entertainment was provided with a Student Variety Show, a flower arrangement talk by Mrs. Alfred Williams, and a soccer game between YJC and Trenton Junior College on the Lower Campus.

Between scheduled events, parents could tour the campus facilities or enjoy the Keystone Art Exhibit.

Sally Harris was interested in first-prize winner.

Dean Smith conversed with parents.

Parents scattered after "briefing" meetings.

Visitors, including little brother, admired the Art Exhibit of York Keystone Roofing Manufacturing Company.

Faculty, Philip Garrett; student, Paulette Young, and parent, John E. Oyler, participated in a panel discussion.

DINING HALL DEDICATED TO FIRST YJC PRESIDENT

During the reception Dr. Johnson was greeted by Mrs. Margaret Lauer, College Purchasing Agent.

On October 18, Dr. Lester F. Johnson, first president of York Junior College, was honored by his associates and friends at a dinner held in the Student Center dining room. Dr. Johnson had served this institution as teacher and headmaster of the York Collegiate Institute before organizing the Junior College.

The festivities of the evening included witty and nostalgic comments by Trustee, Dr. Herman A. Gailey and alumni representative, Robert Reichley. After the dedication of the campus dining room to the former president, Mrs. George E. Schenck made a formal presentation of a portrait of Dr. Johnson. The college choir concluded the pleasant evening with "In Praise of Wisdom," a composition by Director Ralph Woolley.

ART EXHIBITS . . .

For the library foyer, the College commissioned Othmar Carli, an East Berlin artist, to create a mural symbolizing "The World of Learning". In this eight by ten foot production, there are five figures, parts of which appear to be human, while other designs symbolize scales, the lamp of learning, a book, a harp, a compass, and ancient counting instrument. In addition to this permanent feature, the College featured a series of art exhibits.

TEA FOR COEDS

Coeds, Faculty, and York guests heard a challenging talk, November 10, in the Buechel Lounge, when Miss Margaret C. Disert, dean emeritus of Wilson College, spoke on "Changing Prospects for the College Woman." Dean Disert explained that the design of life is changing and women of today's college generation are cast for major roles in the drama. To her, a liberal education offers balance in coping with daily life. She urged the coeds to strike out for unlimited horizons. The woman graduate today can expect to spend twenty-five years combining marriage and a career.

Dean Taylor introduced the speaker in a very gracious manner. Refreshments were served by a Faculty committee, chaired by Miss McNitt.

Mrs. Alfred Williams added the final skillful touch to the centerpiece.

"There are many advantages for the coed who obtains a college degree."

One final question . . .

Panel: Dr. Andrew Jackson, Robert Terry, Charles Seligman, Dr. Scheirer, Mrs. Carmen Owen, Leon Arnold, Russell Yoas.

ADVENTURES IN LEARNING . . .

Over a hundred students were looking for the magic answer in the "Learning Unlimited" discussion held December 7 in the Buechel Lounge. The subject was "How to Prepare For and Pass Final Exams."

Professor Charles Seligman, director of the Division of Business, was the moderator. He was assisted by a Faculty panel.

"Learning Unlimited" was formed last year in an attempt to bring the students, Faculty, and people of the community together to examine in an informal manner different facets of knowledge.

Anticipated subjects for the second semester are a discussion on anthropology, and "Are You Just A Number in Today's Society?"

As a part of the cultural opportunities provided for the students and the community, the College scheduled ten distinguished lecturers and artists, who gave facts and pleasure to their receptive audiences.

This series included prominent persons of government, of the stage, of music, in addition to lecturers, who presented analytical glimpses of American life.

This area of the College's activities had a profound impact upon the community. This positive reaction became evident through the great interest shown by the people of York, for this year the community attendance was the highest to date.

THESPIANS

Approximately 200 drama teachers, directors and students representing fourteen high schools and colleges in adjacent areas attended the fifth annual drama seminar in the gymnasium Monday afternoon, November 14.

The main educational feature was a panel of professional theater actors moderated by Willie Morgan. Gloria Hermes and Steven Meyer represented the Arena House Theater in Harrisburg. Jane Sanford, a former York resident, and John Schuck came from the Center Stage Theater in Baltimore.

In addition to the panel, Elizabeth Livingston, a native of Scotland and a YJC speech teacher, discussed the British approach to the training of professional actors.

Following the dinner, the drama group attended the Footlighters' presentation of the Thurber comedy, "The Male Animal."

CONCERT CHOIR

Tearing off his sport coat, loosening his tie, and shouting, "Okay—choir!," signified Mr. Woolley's routine technique for beginning another rehearsal. These rehearsals enabled the choir to present the annual Christmas and Spring concerts in addition to performances before many community service clubs.

The innovation of this musical year was "In Praise of Wisdom", written by the director. This work combines both modern styles and the polyphonic technique of the 18th and 19th centuries; it is centered around a text taken from Proverbs.

STUDENT SENATE

"Problems? Questions? Gripes? Stop in any time." That's the sign on the Senate office door. In addition to being a sounding board, the Senate handled the activity fee and promoted all college events.

For the York Halloween parade, members of Senate spent hours making white crepe carnations for decorating the queen's sport car.

Preceding Christmas vacation, the holiday spirit was engendered by the handsomely decorated spruce tree placed in the Johnson Dining Hall by members of the Senate.

The Senate meets every Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock. President Wayne Kiser presides and Miss Taylor is adviser.

"Did you receive a pink slip? Is your academic standing dangerously low?" These problems can be solved by consulting the tutoring services offered by members of Phi Theta Kappa, the honor society on campus.

"Scotland, My Home," a talk by Miss Livingston awakened interest in Scotland at the November meeting.

At Christmas time, the members addressed cards to orphans at the York Orphanage and the Paradise Home for Boys.

The most impressive ceremony of Phi Theta Kappa occurred at convocation, February 14, when new members were inducted into the society. The Faculty procession in cap and gown lent dignity to the occasion.

Leaving York at 6 a.m. on the cold dark morning of October 21 did not suppress the high spirits of the Horizon staff as they headed for Phoenixville. At 8 a.m. they were piling into the Pauley station wagon to complete the last leg of their journey to Philadelphia. The Benjamin Franklin Hotel was to be their final stop, the Associated Collegiate Press convention. The timing was perfect as the first workshop sessions opened.

The convention proved to be of great value to the relatively inexperienced staff, for they met with experienced lecturers who helped them formulate new ideas in yearbook production. In addition to the helpful information, the staff enjoyed a banquet and a dance.

The letters to the editor department allowed the students to air their opinions, and the students at large were permitted to submit articles for the news sections. Miss Bowman, an instructor in the English Department with previous newspaper experience, was faculty adviser.

High points in each issue were the "It's Rough" column and the thought provoking editorials.

The Yorker is to be commended in particular first semester for its complete and efficient reporting of activities of the Student Action Committee.

Living in a dormitory is one of the most memorable experiences in college. In the fall, students must get used to "dormitory life." The shaving cream in one's bed, "important" messages during quiet hours, room campus, the noisy guys upstairs, losing money in the vending machines, and the vast assortment of rules—all take some adjustment. However, there are the good things too. Meeting new friends, quiet study hours, floor meetings, exciting arrivals of all those who went home for the weekend, a lot of laughter, and a friendly atmosphere make life pleasant in the dorm. All these contrasts under the competent direction of Mr. and Mrs. George Still and the deserving floor counselors make dormitory life not only memorable, but truly unbelievable at times.

York vs. Chamberlayne

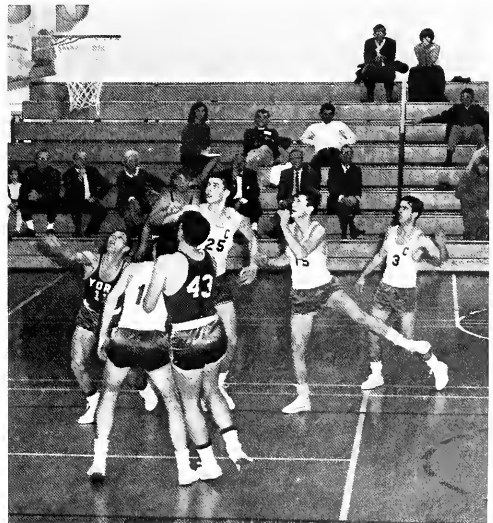

Chamberlayne Junior College of Boston emerged as the only unbeaten team at the Fifth Annual Holiday Festival Basketball Tourney held at York Junior College.

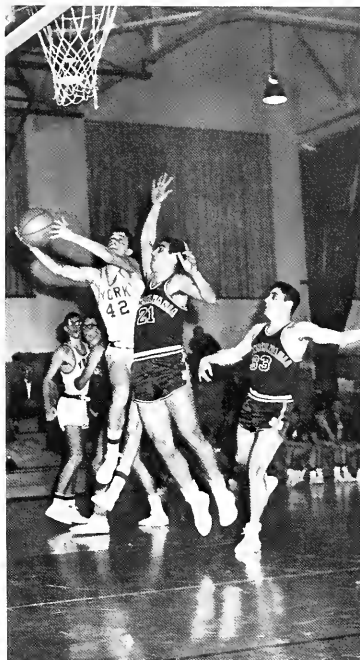

Coach Jack Jaquet, enthusiastic about the Holiday Festival, annually brings together some of the top junior college squads in the two-day round robin tourney.

Louisburg College from North Carolina finished with a 2-1 log. Louisburg outplayed Niagara and YJC and lost to Chamberlayne.

Niagara County Community College of New York wound up with a 1-2 log. They lost to Louisburg and Chamberlayne and defeated the Flying Dutchmen.

Following the games, all four teams were served a buffet at the Student Union building, and individual awards were presented. Our Steve Garvick won the Sportsmanship award and Marc Muri won the Best Rebounder award.

CENTURY MARKERS

The Flying Dutchmen clinched the Eastern title by a 110-60 romp over Keystone Junior College. This was the fourth time the Dutchmen passed the century mark this season. Other games were Valley Forge Jr. College 105-61, University Penn. Frosh 100-86, Valley Forge Jr. College again 118-47. Coach Jaquet led the Flying Dutchmen into another Eastern Penna. league championship among junior colleges. The Flying Dutchmen powered by five veterans have an optimistic outlook for the state finals to be played in Erie in March.

BASEBALL

The Flying Dutchmen coached by Jack Jaquet and led by Captain Ron Fiochetta posted a 9-4-1 record for the season. The small but spirited team suffered four defeats and then went on to win the next nine games.

The highlight of the season was the State Championship Game at Johnstown. The mighty nine from York led by Jack Frank's pitching and the hitting of Roger Burke, Mike McClure, Jim Walton, and Bill Steubing capped the season by winning the tournament.

Bob Snyder and John Dorsheimer did an excellent job on the mound all season. They were backed up with a well rounded offense and a strong defense that displayed their team work and brought the title to York.

MEN'S INTRAMURALS

YJC offers a broad intramural schedule to include at least one interest of every student.

During the fall, the intramural sports program began with touch football. Eleven teams participated. The Edsels were on top with a 10-0 log.

Seventy-five percent of the YJC student body participated in this intramural program which included touch football, basketball, baseball, volleyball, and bowling.

The students and coaching staff thought highly of this program. The devotion and long hours spent on the field and on the court showed a promising future for the students who will continue to develop these athletic interests.

In its first cross-country intercollegiate try, York Junior College finished eighth in a field of twelve, a fine start according to J. C. Jaquet and Robert H. Cummings, coaches, who accompanied the men to Van Cortland Park in New York City for the annual Region XV championship meeting of the National Junior College Athletic Association, November 5.

All competitors except YJC had run a full, dual-meet season and were pointing for the JCAA competition, Jaquet reported.

Local harriers making the trip were Fred Mooseberger, Doug Geganto, Doug Harman, Bob Omler, Harry Kissinger, Don Groft and Steve Wagner.

COEDS IN ACTION

The Girls Physical Education department got under way this year with the new faculty member, Mrs. Bridget Funk directing the cheerleaders into another season. These girls were always successful in projecting enthusiasm and school spirit into the spectators.

Girls' Hockey, modern dance, and a newly formed baton group were the girls' highlights this year. They, too, have an intensive intramural schedule to include at least one interest of every girl.

The Girls' Physical Education department headed by Mrs. Robert Cummings and Mrs. Bridget Funk tried to put competitive spirit into the girls through the physical fitness program. This spirit of competition was never stronger than it was this year.

MODERN DANCE

To celebrate the coming of spring with song and dance, May 1, 1966, the modern dance group directed by JoAnn Cummings, and the YJC Choir directed by Ralph Woolley, presented a joint concert in the gymnasium.

The music part of the program consisted of selections from MADAME BUTTERFLY, Rodgers and Hammerstein familiar numbers, spirituals, and several Welsh airs.

The dance group dramatized contemporary and controversial issues and John H. Griffin's "Black Like Me", tableaux depicting "The Cross and the Switchblade" and "Study in Techniques."

Larry Bailey gave an impressive original interpretation of "Study in Angles."

GOLF

The 1966 team won the Pennsylvania Junior College Athletic Association tournament at Altoona on May 19, 1966, with an 809 total (406-403) for five men for 36 holes. Sherman Keeney was medalist with 149 (74-75) . . . Robert Morris was second.

The team ended third at Region XV at NJCAA tourney at Poughkeepsie, New York. There was a three-way sudden death playoff of a tie, between Robert Morris, Dutchess, and York at 427 for 18 holes. Sherman Keeney was second individually with 79.
